"The harvest is abundant but the laborers are few; so ask the master of the harvest to send out laborers for his harvest."

Reflection for the Solemnity of All Saints

By Pat Lipperini

I have a bible that traveled with me all through college and my younger years. Now I can't even read it because the print is too small. But I took it down from my bookcase the other day to look through it. While I was marveling at how good my eyesight used to be, I saw a quote from St. Teresa of Calcutta, written by me on the inside cover. "Sanctity is not a luxury for the few. It is a simple duty for you and for me. I have to be a saint in my way and you in yours."

I don't think I knew much about Mother Teresa at that time, but I must have been taken by her statement to write it in my bible. It was probably the first time I had ever really entertained the idea that sainthood was my calling, my responsibility, and that it didn't matter about my job or state of life. It wasn't just for the priests and bishops and popes and those in religious life. It was for everyone.

The Second Vatican Council formalized this teaching in the document Lumen Gentium, the Dogmatic Constitution of the Church, stating: "All in the Church, whether they belong to the hierarchy or are cared for by it, are called to holiness" (39). It is therefore quite clear that all Christians in any state or way of life are called to the fullness of Christian life and to the perfection of love" (40). And later: "The forms and tasks of life are many but holiness is one—that sanctity which is cultivated by all who act under God's Spirit and, obeying the Father's voice...follow Christ, poor, humble and cross-bearing" (41). This teaching, generally articulated as the Universal Call to Holiness has its foundation in many passages of Sacred Scripture such as Leviticus: "Be holy for I am holy" (11:44) or 1 Peter: "Be holy yourselves in every aspect of your conduct" (1:15). But this formalization became a clarion call to grasp the underlying basis of the idea of vocation.

We can live and work in many ways and states of life. But whatever that way and state of life might be, we all must ask ourselves—where are our hearts? Can we find God woven into our answers of family, professions, and hobbies? Can we look at the whole of our lives and see God's holy presence? And can we work to redirect all that we do and love in service of God's ways?

When we look at the lives of the saints it can be helpful to say their names without their title of "saint" and to imagine their lives outside of the iconography always associated with them. Then we can see them more clearly as diverse people whose hearts became more and more oriented towards God. They walked along their own path in life, and by listening to God's word, and by praying and partaking of the Sacraments, they gradually made more room for God along the way. They recognized their own gifts and abilities, but didn't hold them tight to themselves. Rather, they gave them away in loving service to others. They taught, they healed, they mothered, they organized, they discovered, they wrote, they prayed... whatever their gifts, they gave them away. And in doing so, they were not depleted, but completed, and became stronger and happier and more flourishing human beings. They became holy.

I went to confession once and the priest opened our meeting with the question, "What is keeping you from being a saint?" It really caught me off guard, for that's not a question one hears very often. But maybe that's what we should think about. What is cluttering up our paths (our hearts)? And how can we declutter enough so that our vocation to holiness is a perfectly reasonable and exciting goal for our lives?

Stewardship Priority

"Render therefore to Caesar the things that are Caesar's and to God the things that are God's. - Matthew 22:21"

Everything we are and everything we have belongs to God. We aren't "owners" of anything, we are merely "stewards" of the gifts God has given each of us. All God is asking is that we give back a portion of what He gave us. This is the essence of Stewardship. God should be our first priority in everything. All else comes second, especially our money.

A Spirituality for Our Times: That All May Be One

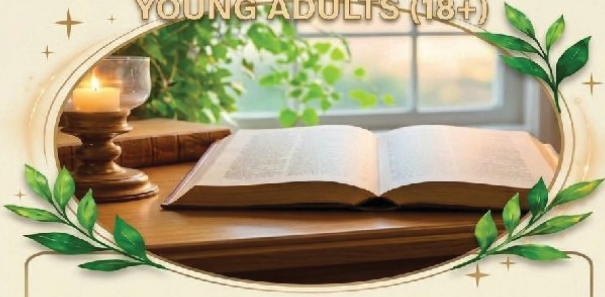

The Sisters of Saint Joseph live and work so that all people may be united with God and with one another. They follow a spiritual path (a spirituality) that has guided them since 1650 in bringing the dream of Jesus, that all may be one (John 17:21), to greater fullness. This mission is as much needed today as it was in 1650. Their spiritual path, so rooted in the Gospel, continues to guide not only the Sisters, but also their Associates in Mission. Associates in Mission are women and men who share the same desire to deepen relationship with God, with one another and all people without distinction.

Associates live the mission in the ordinary circumstances of their lives, transforming lives and our culture one relationship at a time. Currently, there are over 400 lay women and men affiliated with the Philadelphia Sisters of Saint Joseph. They can be found in NJ, PA, DE, GA, NC and scattered throughout other states. Are you interested in learning what inspires today's lay women and men to live as Associates in Mission? Do you desire to be with others in deepening your relationship with God and living in ways that are unifying? Then, come find out more!

The Sisters at Christ Our Light invite you to an information session on Saturday, November 14 from 10 to 11:30 AM in the Parish Center (St. Mary Room). If possible, let us know you are coming. Just contact any Sister of Saint Joseph or send an email to Sister Dolores Clerico at dclerico@gmail.com. All are welcome!

SOLEMNITY OF ALL SAINTS

Reading 1 - Revelation 7:2-4, 9-14

I, John, saw another angel come up from the East, holding the seal of the living God. He cried out in a loud voice to the four angels who were given power to damage the land and the sea, "Do not damage the land or the sea or the trees until we put the seal on the foreheads of the servants of our God." I heard the number of those who had been marked with the seal, one hundred and forty-four thousand marked from every tribe of the children of Israel.

After this I had a vision of a great multitude, which no one could count, from every nation, race, people, and tongue. They stood before the throne and before the Lamb, wearing white robes and holding palm branches in their hands.

They cried out in a loud voice: "Salvation comes from our God, who is seated on the throne, and from the Lamb."

All the angels stood around the throne and around the elders and the four living creatures. They prostrated themselves before the throne, worshiped God, and exclaimed: "Amen. Blessing and glory, wisdom and thanksgiving, honor, power, and might be to our God forever and ever. Amen."

Then one of the elders spoke up and said to me, "Who are these wearing white robes, and where did they come from?" I said to him, "My lord, you are the one who knows." He said to me, "These are the ones who have survived the time of great distress; they have washed their robes and made them white in the Blood of the Lamb."

Responsorial Psalm: Lord, this is the people that longs to see your face. Psalm 24:1bc-6

Reading 2 - 1 John 3:1-3

Beloved: See what love the Father has bestowed on us that we may be called the children of God. Yet so we are. The reason the world does not know us is that it did not know him. Beloved, we are God's children now; what we shall be has not yet been revealed. We do know that when it is revealed we shall be like him, for we shall see him as he is. Everyone who has this hope based on him makes himself pure, as he is pure.

Gospel - Matthew 5:1-12a

When Jesus saw the crowds, he went up the mountain, and after he had sat down, his disciples came to him. He began to teach them, saying: "Blessed are the poor in spirit, for theirs is the Kingdom of heaven. Blessed are they who mourn, for they will be comforted. Blessed are the meek, for they will inherit the land. Blessed are they who hunger and thirst for righteousness, for they will be satisfied. Blessed are the merciful, for they will be shown mercy. Blessed are the clean of heart, for they will see God. Blessed are the peacemakers, for they will be called children of God. Blessed are they who are persecuted for the sake of righteousness, for theirs is the Kingdom of heaven. Blessed are you when they insult you and persecute you and utter every kind of evil against you falsely because of me. Rejoice and be glad, for your reward will be great in heaven."

CREED: I believe in one God, the Father almighty, maker of heaven and earth, of all things visible and invisible. I believe in one Lord Jesus Christ, the Only Begotten Son of God, born of the Father before all ages. God from God, Light from Light, true God from true God, begotten, not made, consubstantial with the Father, through him all things were made. For us men and for our salvation, he came down from heaven.

And by the Holy Spirit was incarnate of the Virgin Mary, and became man.

For our sake he was crucified under Pontius Pilate, he suffered death and was buried, and rose again on the third day in accordance with the Scriptures. He ascended into heaven and is seated at the right hand of the Father. He will come again in glory to judge the living and the dead and his kingdom will have no end. I believe in the Holy Spirit, the Lord, the giver of life, who proceeds from the Father and the Son, who with the Father and the Son is adored and glorified, who has spoken through the prophets. I believe in one, holy, catholic and apostolic Church. I confess one Baptism for the forgiveness of sins and I look forward to the resurrection of the dead and the life of the world to come. Amen.
