Questioning God

Pat Lipperini

Today we meditate on Jesus' heartbreak and agony during his passion. Imagine, after all he'd done, after all he'd taught, after all he'd loved and healed, he was being crucified. Everything he had and everything he was—taken away from him. His friends, his possessions, his dignity, his family, his breath, his life. We hear his lament: My God, my God, why have you abandoned me?

My God, my God, why have you abandoned me? These words are so extremely sad and quite disconcerting. What questions do we have when we hear Jesus cry out? How does it make us feel to have Jesus, the Son of God, cry out that God has abandoned him? Was Jesus losing his faith? Did God truly abandon him? Was this a question that should not be asked?

Scripture scholars point out that often, the inclusion of one line of a scripture passage in the gospels is meant to recall the entirety of the passage. Because one line of something doesn't always represent what the passage actually means, or one line might not be enough to show the richness of the message. When we hear Jesus quote from psalm 22, we know that's what bystanders heard him say. But, as the scholars suggest, we can wonder whether perhaps he was praying the whole psalm, quietly to himself to bring God into his pain.

We see a larger sampling of the prayer in today's responsorial psalm. It begins with the agonizing question: My God, why have you abandoned me, and it continues in terrible lament of all that the person is experiencing. They have pierced my hands and my feet...They divide my garments among them. For my clothing they cast lots...

But the psalm doesn't end with these tortured images. The psalm goes on and it transforms into a proclamation of trust in God's goodness: For he...did not turn away from me, but heard me when I cried out. I will offer praise in the great assembly. Jesus, even in his anguish, knew the whole psalm, knew every line, and that is why he was praying it—to remember God WAS there in his agony. And that gave him the strength to put his life in God's hands.

In his darkest hour, Jesus cries out to God with the most obvious question, a question that has been part of the Jewish tradition of prayer for centuries, a question that is actually proof of a relationship with God, for we ask the hard questions of those we love and trust. Have you abandoned me? Do you see what I'm going through? But far from a statement of losing his faith, it is another gift from Jesus to us, for he has shared our trials. He says Yes, I know what it's like to be broken, but I will yet proclaim: God is always faithful. And God will rescue me (and you). You are not forgotten; you are not alone.

I want a laity, ... who know their religion, who enter into it, who know just where they stand, who know what they hold and what they do not, who know their creed so well that they can give an account of it, who know so much of history that they can defend it. I want an intelligent, well-instructed laity — I wish you to enlarge your knowledge, to cultivate your reason, to get an insight into the relation of truth to truth, to learn to view things as they are, to understand how faith and reason stand to each other, what are the bases and principles of Catholicism... Cardinal John Henry Newman

At the Procession with Palms—Gospel: Matthew 2: 1-11

When Jesus and the disciples drew near Jerusalem and came to Bethphage on the Mount of Olives, Jesus sent two disciples, saying to them, "Go into the village opposite you, and immediately you will find an ass tethered, and a colt with her. Untie them and bring them here to me. And if anyone should say anything to you, reply, 'The master has need of them.' Then he will send them at once." This happened so that what had been spoken through the prophet might be fulfilled: Say to daughter Zion, "Behold, your king comes to you, meek and riding on an ass, and on a colt, the foal of a beast of burden." The disciples went and did as Jesus had ordered them. They brought the ass and the colt and laid their cloaks over them, and he sat upon them. The very large crowd spread their cloaks on the road, while others cut branches from the trees and strewed them on the road. The crowds preceding him and those following kept crying out and saying: "Hosanna to the Son of David; blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord; hosanna in the highest." And when he entered Jerusalem the whole city was shaken and asked, "Who is this?" And the crowds replied, "This is Jesus the prophet, from Nazareth in Galilee."

FIRST READING: Isaiah 50: 4-7

The Lord GOD has given me a well-trained tongue, that I might know how to speak to the weary a word that will rouse them. Morning after morning he opens my ear that I may hear; and I have not rebelled, have not turned back. I gave my back to those who beat me, my cheeks to those who plucked my beard; my face I did not shield from buffets and spitting. The Lord GOD is my help, therefore I am not disgraced; I have set my face like flint, knowing that I shall not be put to shame.

RESPONSORIAL PSALM: My God, my God, why have you abandoned me?

SECOND READING: Philippians 2: 6-11

Christ Jesus, though he was in the form of God, did not regard equality with God something to be grasped. Rather, he emptied himself, taking the form of a slave, coming in human likeness; and found human in appearance, he humbled himself, becoming obedient to the point of death, even death on a cross. Because of this, God greatly exalted him and bestowed on him the name which is above every name, that at the name of Jesus every knee should bend, of those in heaven and on earth and under the earth, and every tongue confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father.

READING OF THE PASSION OF THE LORD: Matthew 26:14—27:66
Please turn to page 90 in Breaking Bread.

CREED: I believe in one God, the Father almighty, maker of heaven and earth, of all things visible and invisible. I believe in one Lord Jesus Christ, the Only Begotten Son of God, born of the Father before all ages. God from God, Light from Light, true God from true God, begotten, not made, consubstantial with the Father, through him all things were made. For us men and for our salvation, he came down from heaven.

At the words that follow, up to and including “and became man”, all bow.

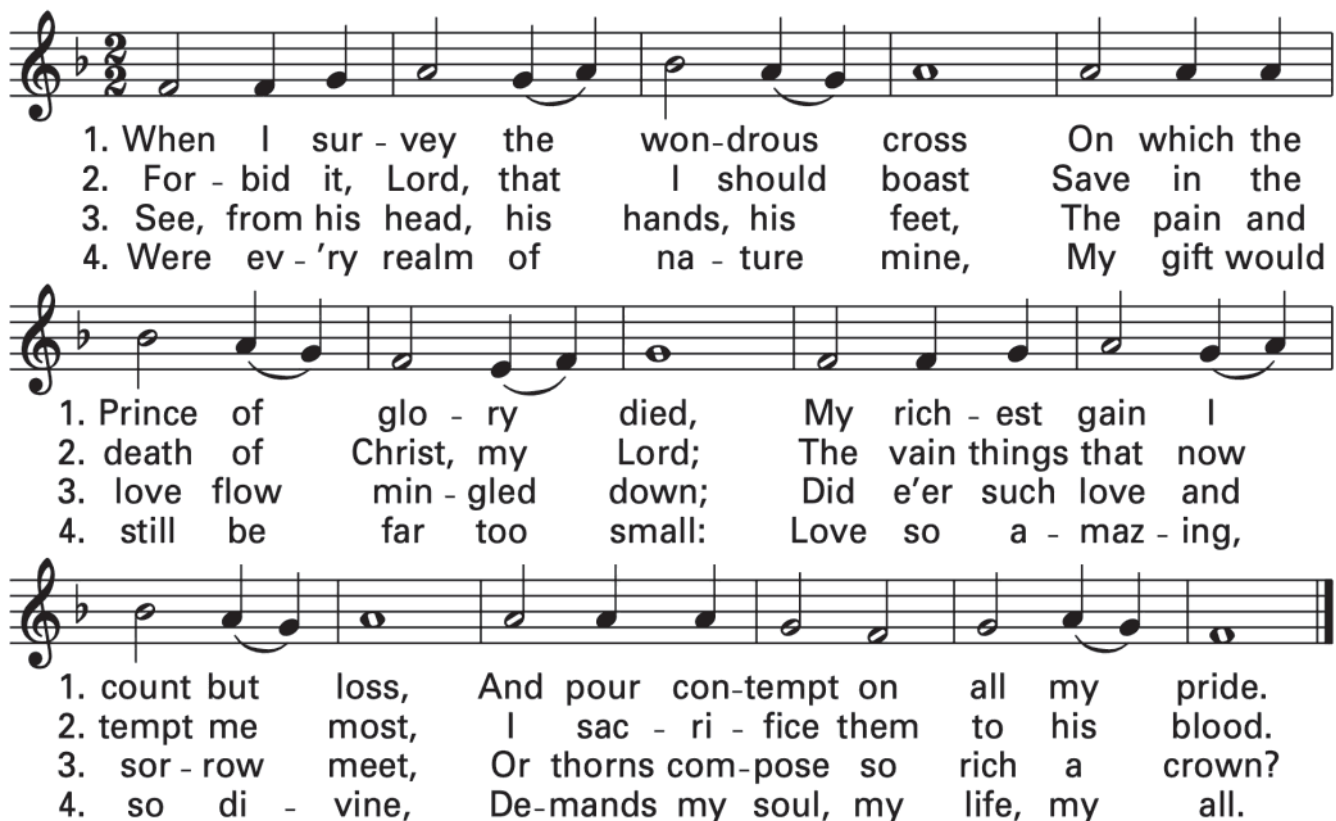

And by the Holy Spirit was incarnate of the Virgin Mary, and became man.

For our sake he was crucified under Pontius Pilate, he suffered death and was buried, and rose again on the third day in accordance with the Scriptures. He ascended into heaven and is seated at the right hand of the Father. He will come again in glory to judge the living and the dead and his kingdom will have no end. I believe in the Holy Spirit, the Lord, the giver of life, who proceeds from the Father and the Son, who with the Father and the Son is adored and glorified, who has spoken through the prophets. I believe in one, holy, catholic and apostolic Church. I confess one Baptism for the forgiveness of sins and I look forward to the resurrection of the dead and the life of the world to come. Amen.
